Opinions Vary On Andrews' New Real Beer Tonic Ruling

CREATES LITTLE STIR IN CONGRESS OR ELSEWHERE

Expected to Have No Effect in States Having State Prohibition Laws

Washington, March 30, (AP)—While the nation seemed to get a kick out of the approval of the government to sell 3.75 per cent medicinal beer, about the only stir here was the statement by the Anti-Saloon league that "the manufacture of such strong malt tonics was a mistake."

Nothing was said in congress on the question and the prohibition question was out of the discussion except the introduction of a bill proposing a sweeping investigation of prohibition and its enforcement.

Officials in charge of prohibition refused, in the absence of Assistant Secretary Andrews, to make a statement except to say that the new health tonic would be on sale at drug stores in prohibition states.

Oklahoma City, March 30, (AP)—The decision of Assistant Secretary Andrews of the treasury department to permit the sale of medicinal beer will have no effect on the enforcement of the Oklahoma prohibition law, George B. Short, attorney general said here today.

Medicinal tonics containing 10 per cent may be sold and whether the new tonic remains in that class will be seen.

St. Paul, Minn., March 30, (AP)—Andrew J. Volstead, father of prohibition enforcement act, is not ready to put his stamp of approval on the "health brew" sanctioned by prohibition enforcement officials.

Unless the brew really proves to be merely a tonic, unfit for beverage purposes, all shipments in this district will be seized, said Volstead, who is legal adviser in the district enforcement offices.

The state attorney general's office backed this up with a statement that if the 3.75% brew proves "potable as a beverage" it cannot be sold under the Minnesota prohibition laws.

Further gloom for potential beer drinkers emanated from St. Paul brewing companies, where officials declared the brew will be so heavy with its 25 per cent malt solid that a glass or two will satiate any appetite.

Mr. Volstead said he believed the brew would correspond with malt tonics manufactured before prohibiton and that its preparation is covered under sections of the eighteenth amendment defining patent and proprietary medicines.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 30, (AP)—"You might as well open up the corner saloon," was the comment today of E. S. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana anti-saloon league, when informed of the ruling of Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasry, that a malt beverage containing 3.75 per cent alcohol is to be put on the market for a period of six months.

Shumaker takes the position that regardless of the outcome of the Andrews ruling, the Indiana state liquor law will prevent the sale of the product in this state, where liquor for medicinal purposes is prohibited.

BULL DOG IS KILLED TO BREAK GRASP ON SPITZ

While W. H. Peterson, living at Seventeenth and Houston streets, was starting to drive his car out of the garage Tuesday a stray bulldog rushed in the garage and attacked his small spitz dog, seizing it by the throat. It held on viciously and refused to turn loose.

Mr. Peterson caught the bulldog by the legs and tried to pull it loose, but failed. He then stamped its head with the heel of his shoe, but still it refused to relinquish its hold on the little dog's throat.

Failing, as a last resort, in an attempt to pry its jaws open with a piece of iron, he called to his wife to bring his pistol and he shot and killed the bulldog before he could release its hold on his dog's throat.

FOUR MEN HOLD UP SAN ANTONIO BANK

Hold Employes and Customers at Bay in Heart of City During Noon Hour

San Antonio, March 30, (AP)—Currency amounting to $19,138 taken from the San Antonio National bank by four armed men during a noon hour holdup today. It was the first bank robbery in San Antonio is six years.

The loot was estimated at $50,000 by officials after the robbery, but a check showed that the robbers got not more than $20,000. The whole amount was covered by insurance.

Four men described as being about 25 years of age took part in the holdup. Three entered the front door at about 12:20 with patrons, and taking the employes by surprise, the robbers covered them with sawed-off shotguns and revolvers.

After taking all of the currency in sight and overlooking $5,000 the men decided not to try to open a locked vault and the fourth man guarded the employes while his confederates fled to cars. The episode lasted about six minutes.

San Antonio, March 30, (AP)—Forcing bank officials, employes and customers to kneel at the point of sawed-off shot guns, several men at noon today ransacked the San Antonio National Bank, on West Commerce street, and escaped with an unknown amount of money. Posses of officers are searching the city for them.

The number of men participating in the holdup are variously reported at two, three, four and five, but best accounts were that there were four. It was reported that after leaving the bank, they entered a waiting automobile on Navarro street and sped through the downtown traffic.

The men entered the bank at 12:5 p. m.

Cashier T. D. Anderson looked up to face the menacing barrel of a shotgun at his desk near the entrance. Silently the four filed into the bank and shouted to employes and customers, "Get down on the floor quick."

Then the men scooped up all of the money.

President W. L. Heriff was marched to rear, made to lie down and a shotgun was placed against his temple by one of the men.

It took but a few moments for the bandits to rifle the safe, but to the dozen or more lying on the floor with the menacing shotguns pointed at them it seemed hours.

Austin, March 30, (AP)—Adjutant General Dallas J. Matthews is holding Texas Rangers in readiness in the event San Antonio authorities call for assistance in running down robbers of the San Antonio National bank.

According to reports received at Ranger headquarters here, four men participated in the robbery, and are believed to be hiding in San Antonio.

NEWLYWEDS SENTENCED ON BURGLARY CHARGES

Tulsa, Okla., March 30, (AP)—Roy Boggs, 20, and Lillie Boggs, 22, his bride of ten days, were sentenced to serve two-year terms each in the state penitentiary at McAlester in district court here late Monday, less than four hours after confessing to officers of burglarizing a furniture store Friday night. They secured about $10 in cash and stamps.

Persons From Many Parts Of Nation See Exhibition

The Paris industrial exhibit of the past week was witnessed by visitors from one end of the United States to the other, the register maintained by the Paris Chamber of Comerce indicates. Among the fifty-four cities and towns represented are Daytona Beach, Fla.; Redfrew, Canada; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Des Moines, Iowa; Longworth, Ohio; Durant, Okla.; Danville, Ill.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; Battle Creek, Mich; Loama, Ill. and Fort Smith, Ark.

Among the Texas cities were Dallas, Fort Worth, El Paso, Lubbock, Denton, Texarkana, Terrell, Cooper, Lamesa, Sherman, Clarksville, Tyler, Bonham and Honey Grove. Nearly every town in the immediate section and every town in Lamar county appears on the register, numerous times in some instances.

Sulphur Springs was the first town registered two traveling salesmen from that place, Fred Storey and Fred Seay, being the first visitors at the exhibit.

The roster shows 2,871 persons registered and it is estimated that 2,000 students and teachers from Lamar county schools attended in addition.

"We estimate that one out of every three visitors who attended the exhibition registered," W. W. Evans, secretary of the chamber of commerce declared Tuesday "and on this basis approximately 10,000 persons came to the chamber of commerce auditorium during industrial week."

Mr. Evans said the chamber of commerce officials were deeply grateful for the big attendance from the rural schools and for support of these institutions.

UNVEIL STATUE OF PIONEER IN ETHER

Honor is Paid in Washington to Discoverer of Use of Anaesthetics

Jefferson, Ga., March 30, (AP)—Jefferson went about the customary routine of life in a Georgia country town today, while at Washington honor was being paid to its most famous citizen—Dr. Crawford W. Long.

With impressive ceremonies a statue of Dr. Long as the discoverer of ether as an anaesthetic was unveiled today in Statuary Hall of the National Capitol.

It was in this Georgia village in 1842, beneath an oak before his office door, that Dr. Long performed the first operation on a patient anaesthetized by inhalation. Twice after that Dr. Long conducted the experiment and with marked success.

The old oak beneath which Dr. Long performed his first operation using ether as an anaesthetic, said W. H. Smith, a native citizen and merchant, in recalling the history connected with it, was cut down about twelve years ago and part of it went to firewood. Through Mr. Smith's effort, however, a part of it was saved and from it a number of gavels used in the nation's capitol were made and also pen staffs used in state and memorial occasions have been carved from portions of the tree.

The gavel used during the ceremonies to mark the unveiling of the statue to Dr. Long was made from the oak, as was the one used by Charles Evans Hughes, then secretary of state, when he presided over the Washington arms conference in 1921.

Jefferson long ago honored Dr. Long's memory and his discovery, erecting a marble slab in a building that occupies the place where Dr. Long's office stood.

Dempsey Charged with Reckless Driving

Fresno, Cal., March 30, (AP)—A warrant for the personal appearance in court for Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight boxing champion, on a charge of reckless driving was isued today at Madera, California.

PRECINCT BARN IS WRECKED IN BLAZE

Tool Barn at Sumner Destroyed With Loss Over Three Thousand Dollars

Fire of undetermined origin Tuesday afternoon destroyed the small precinct barn owned by the county at Sumner, in which work tools, graders, tractors and other machinery was kept, with a total loss estimated at between $3,000 and $4,000. The property was not protected by insurance, County Auditor John S. Baker declared.

Mr. Baker received a telephone call from Commissioner Ed Bonham of the Direct precinct informing him of the fire. It was said that the barn caught fire while the workmen were away at lunch.

A two-ton tractor almost new was badly damaged, and a truck also nearly new, was almost destroyed. A smaller truck was badly damaged. All of the repair tools and a barrel or two of lubricating oil were lost.

Commissioner Bonham declared that he would build a temporary shed and would repair the damaged machinery immediately.

BARON WANDERS MANY YEARS; SETTLES IN U. S.

San Francisco, March 30, (AP)—The international ramblings of Baron Heribert Von Reidlstein, late of Vienna, brought this distinguished visitor and his wife to San Francisco yesterday. They arrived from the Far East on the steamer Bokuyo Maru and immediately set out on a task of "settling down" after years of wandering by the baron as a wealthy nobleman and as a vagabond.

Baron and his wife were in Japan when the war came. As a captain in the Austrian army, the nobleman offered his services to the German garrison at Tsingtao, China. He became a prisoner of war for five years when the Japanese took the city, while the baroness engaged in Red Cross work.

The baron's fortune melted. He sold a valuable colection of ivory carvings. They went to Chile and opened an studio. Disappointed, they wandered again.

CONTEND REPORT OF TARIFF BOARD IS CONFIDENTIAL

Senate Investigators Unable to Get Copies of Data Collected by Commission

Washington, March 30, (AP)—The senate committe investigating the tariff commission has encountered difficulty in its effort to secure copies of the commissions confidential reports.

Chairman Marvin of the commission came before the committee today but he did not bring along the reports asked for by the committee chairman, Senator Robinson of Arkansas. Mr. Marvin said the commission had adopted a policy of holding its reports confidential until the president made them public.

"Under what section of the law do you withhold the reports from this committee?" asked Senator Robinson.

"I recall no provison of the law, but the commission is regarded as an adviser to the president and it is a question of who has jurisdiction," replied Chairman Marvin.

"All members of the commission think all the reports should be made public when the case is disposed of. I personally wrote to President Coolidge for permission to publish the sugar report, but my letter has not been answered."

He was asked by Senator Robinson to take up with the entir commission the committee's requests for the reports on sugar, butter, halibut, print roll and linseed oil, which have been published.

Senator Robinson also developed that although Commissioner Brossard was appointed to the commission by President Coolidge in June, 1925, his name never has been sent to the senate.

Chairman Marvin testified that Brossard first was employed by the commission to investigate the beet sugar tariff, and that prior to that he was on the faculty of Utah agricultural college.

"How long has it been since he served as secretary to Senator Smoot?" asked Senator Robinson.

"I don't know."

Senator Robinson drew from Chairman Marvin the statement that provisions of the flexible tariff could not be applied to important schedules because it would take too long and cost too much to make the necessary investigations. He included in this class, steel, aluminum, wool and cotton.

Asked about the woolen schedules, the commission chairman said that "present conditions in the woolen and cotton industry makes it unwise to put the rates either up or down."

Mr. Marvin said under questioning that he had been secretary to the home market club in Boston before coming to the tariff commission in 1921, and had appeared in a personal capacity before congressional committees on tariff subjects.

SMOOT SAYS ITALY WON'T PAY ANOTHER PENNY

Washington, March 30, (AP)—The debt settlement with Italy represents "the very last penny" the United States could get out of that country" Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, said today in the senate "If we do not agree to this settlement," he said, "it will be a long time before we get anything out of Italy."

Th pronouncement of the finance committee chairman, who is a member of the debt commission, came in the midst of a second day of debate on the settlement and was in direct reply to Senator Howell, Republican, Nebraska, an opponent of the settlement.

Senator Howell demanded to know why the American commission had not frankly told American people that Italy had said "you can take this or you can take nothing."

The debate today lacked the fire of yesterday's session and teemed with statistics in total sums of hundreds of millions and billions. Senator Howell opened with a prepared address of two hours and Senator Edge, Republican, New Jersey, replied.

Declaring it was time the United States ceased the role of Santa Claus to European nations, he showed that the settlements would cost the American tax payers thirty billion dollars.

LIGHTNING SAVES FORTUNE IN GEMS

San Antonio, March 30, (AP)—Flashes of lightning early Tuesday morning through unshuttered windows of the hotel room of George Scheutz, New York jewelry salesman, are believed to have routed a burglar who escaped with $250 in money but leaving $250,000 in diamonds.

Scheutz discovered his loss when he awoke with his empty wallet nearby. On the other side of the bed the bag holding the fortune in gems was undisturbed.

HEARING ON FARM RELIEF NEAR END

Develops That President and Jardine Are Possibly Opposed Stabilizing Measure

Washington, March 30, (AP)—During hearings on farm relief legislation today before the house agriculture committee, Representative Fulmer, Democrat, South Carolina, asked S. H. Thompson, head of the American Farm Bureau Federation, whether it was true that the president, the secretaries of agriculture and commerce, and the United States chamber of commerce opposed the proposed corn belt bill.

Thompson said the plan had been presented to the president and to Secretary Jardine, but he did not know their attitude, and the delegation had made no effort to press the bill anywhere except before the house committee. Representative Fulmer referred to a published interview with Representative Tilson of Connecticut, Republican floor leader, quoting him as indicating congress had carried out the principal pledges of the majority party and should adjourn at an early date, avoiding "novelties" in legislation which might disturb business.

"Apparently he forgot the pledge to aid the farmers," he added.

Thompson's testimony was completed and the committee adjourned until tomorrow with the expectation of hearing at that time a number of prominent cotton producers of the south who have asked for an opportunity to discuss the condition of cotton farmers.

The house agriculture committee, which is considering farm relief measures, neared the end of hearings of the corn belt bill to stabilize crops today, cross examining S. H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Representative Aswell, Democrat, Louisiana, said the far west was not solidly behind the measure, which would levy an equalization fee on farm commodities to be used to stabilize the surplus, but Mr. Thompson replied that it would be impossible to present legislation not opposed in some quarters.

When Representative Jones, of Texas, raised the point that cattle associations in the southwest had not been consulted the witness said extensive middlewest interests had endorsed the measure.

SISTER OF KING GEORGE IS ILL WITH INFLUENZA

London, March 30, (AP)—There had been no material change this morning in the condition of Princess Victoria, sister of King George, who is suffering at Marlborough house with influenza pneumonia.

The Prince of Wales, who had his ear drum lanced Monday morning aofter an attack of influenza, was progressing well.

There is some anxiety regarding Princess Victoria, who is 58 years old, because she is rather frail of physique, not having enjoyed good health for some time. The death of her mother, Dowager Queen Alexandra, affected her greatly. The princess is understood to have a natural tendency toward bronchitis.

The official announcement that no further regular bulletins concerning the condition of the Prince of Wales would be issued is regarded as a good omen.

How soon the prince will be able to leave his room will depend on his general health and the weather. It is said that even if he is continued indoors longer than a week it will not necessarily mean that his progress toward recovery is unsatisfactory.

Snow Storms Sweep North And West Texas; Tornado Visits Gulf Coast Region

Rain, sleet and snow fell simultaneously here shortly afternoon Tuesday, as rapidly declining temperatures caused the intermittent rain of the past two days to turn into an unusual snowfall for this season of the year. The snow fell almost continously throughout most of the afternoon, but melted as fast as it fell, total precipitation for the day being .12 of an inch.

Many persons said the size of the flakes was unprecedented for so long a snowfall. The precipitation was so heavy at time that driving of automobiles was difficult. No accidents had been reported last night, however.

Late in the afternoon the snow abated and there seemed less likelihood of a snow blanket for Paris this morning. The forecast for Paris was probably fair and slightly warmer Wednesday. Thermometers registered 33 degrees at midnight last night and there was little likelihood that they would drop much lower than the freezing point. Late reports here were that a two-inch snow lay on the ground at Bonham and that snow was still falling.

Little fear that fruit or truck would be seriously damaged during the night was expressed at midnight.

Dallas, March 30, (AP)—After coaxing forth myriad blossoms and warming mother earth's breast by weeks' of sunshine, March chose Texas as the battle ground of an elimination contest between winter and spring. Tonight winter holds sway, leaving in her wake a heavy blanket of snow in the Texas panhandle and Plains regions.

Four are dead and at least 30 injured in a wind storm that swept the region of the state centering at Houston. Great damage to fruit in West Texas was reported likely in consquence of a 25 degree temperature last night in that part of the state, while a snow storm that centered at Amarillo, where a temperature of 16 degrees above zero was registered, swept south today, the Rio Grande valley falling victim of the "blue norther."

Two of the four persons known to have been killed in the storm, lost their lives at Liberty, in timber crashes. A white woman was killed at Crosby. Twenty-five persons were injured, more or less severely at Beaumont and three at Liberty.

At Beaumont, where the greatest damage was wreaked by the wind, roofs of many houses were snatched off after the city had been thrown in darkness early this morning by the wind's havoc. The wind howled for 20 minutes there, taking away a large section of the Hotel Beaumont, damaging business houses and dwellings. As the first of the business houses caved in great loss was caused by the water rushing in. Roofs of 500 houses that may amount to many thousands of dollars, resulted from the storm in the Houston section. The wind that reached an intensity of 82 miles an hour, with most severity along a strip of 100 miles in length, demolished 11 derricks, small houses and communication wires.

Property loss at Houston was estimated at $250,000, and at Beaumont at $500,000. Nine oil well derricks were wrecked at Orange. It was the second storm of the month at that point, bringing the total number of derricks demolished to 147.

The wind in East Texas was termed a "violent thunderstorm squall." The tail of the windstorm touched San Antonio on the west, where the wind reached a velocity of 37 miles an hour.

MARCH GOES OUT AS THE ROARING KING OF BEASTS

Great Area of Nation Bows to Winter Storm King Four Days Before Easter

Kansas City, March 30, (AP)—Departing March lashed the West and Southwest with all its latent fury yesterday and today and will continue to wreak its pent-up vengeance during the remaining hours of its existence. Already two deaths have resulted, property has been damaged to the extent of a half million dollars and early fruit has suffered widespread damage, while a never-deepening blanket of white has covered the ground.

From the Rocky mountain section into Kansas, Missouri, Northern Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle the mantle of white extended today, with heavy rainfall reported in Southern Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas, low temperatures accompanied the storm, ranging down to 16 degrees in the Texas Panhandle. The snowfall was the heaviest of the winter for many sections and the greatest in 18 years at Amarillo, Texas. Out in the wheat sections of Kansas the snowfall was reported as four to ten inches deep.

In Kansas the snowfall was one of the heaviest in the history of the state, and had abated today only in the northwest corner. In the wheat belt farmers were reported jubilant as one of the most promising crops of winter wheat received new stimulus from the moisture. Topeka reported eight and a half inches of snow had fallen at midnight, while today the snow was melting faster than it fell. A special bulletin issued by the Kansas board of agriculture said widespread damage to early fruit had been reported by orchardists by last week's cold wave, the forerunner of the present storm.

Apricots, the bulletin said, were probably a total loss while peaches and plums ranged from a total loss in some Southern counties to slight damage in protected areas. In some southern counties summer apple trees were caught in full bloom. Bush fruits and berries were not effected.

Northwest Oklahoma received several inches of snow. Woodward reported a five-inch blanket. Drifts several feet deep were reported.

At Kansas City the snowfall, six and a half inches, was reported by the weather bureau to be the heaviest on record for the final week in March. A light snow was still falling at noon today and was expected to continue at least intermittently throughout the day and tonight. Sedalia, in west-central Missouri, reported four inches of snow. St. Jo reported five and three-fifth inches with a temperature of 24 above.

Nearly all trains were reported running late into Kansas City, held back by the heavy snow. Telegraph wires were down in many places west of here.

The weather bureau here described the storm as merely a heavy snow storm, rather than a blizzard. The latter, it was explained, is accompanied by zero temperatures and driving gales.

WOULD STAY EXECUTION DURING PASSOVER WEEK

Dallas, March 30, (AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson failed to take into account Passover Week when she recently granted a five-day reprieve to the Robinson brothers, negro slayers, to prevent their electrocution on Good Friday, Victor Rosenblatt, Dallas Jew, charged today.

Rosenblatt said he will ask rabbis of Dallas synagogues to petition the governor to grant further reprieve.

"The governor seems to have forgotten that April 6, the new date for the execution falls in Passover Week, observed universally by Jewish people as a holy event," Rosenblatt said.

"It would be terrible to execute th negroes during the Passover," he added.

LUTHER BURBANK'S CONDITION SERIOUS

Santa Rosa, Cal., March 30, (AP)—Luther Burbank, world-famous horticulturist, is waging a valiant battle against a persistent illness which has confined him to bed at his home here for the last few days.

Extreme nervousness of the patient, and a seemingly constant desire to return to his work in the garden combined to make his condition "doubtful" last night, his personal physician, Dr. Joseph H. Shaw, said.

Dr. Shaw's bulletin, issued verbally at 11:30 p. m., said:

"Mr. Burbank is resting fairly comfortably, with short periods of refreshing sleep, more or less disturbed by occasional hiccoughing. Owing to his extreme age and intense neurosis, his condition is doubtful."

PLANS GO FORWARD FOR INTERSCHOLASTIC MEET

Directors of the county interscholastic league potsponed their meeting from last night until this evening on account of inclement weather and will meet tonight in the county superintendent's office in the court house, to arrange details of the plans for the final contests and the school fair set for Friday and Saturday.

Committees are hard at work on the arrangements, and the booths should all be ready by 10 o'clock Friday morning, many of the schools sending in delegations to work on the decorations during the evenings this week.

The literary events will begin Friday morning, the parade, beginning at 2 o'clock and the style show and pageant at the fair grounds will be held that afternoon, the declamations and debate occupying the evening and Saturday devoted to the track and field schedule.

SOME CORN REPLANTING SAID TO BE NECESSARY

There seemed to be some difference of opinion among farmers Tuesday as to whether corn would have to be planted over on account of the wold and wet weather.

Some of them were of the opinion that replanting would be necessary, while others were afraid they might have to replant, but said it was too early to tell.

S. H. McClure and W. A. Jack of Pleasant Hill and J. E. Hudgins of Petty, experienced farmers, were of the opinion that corn would have to be replanted.

County Agent Carl Tanner said that due to the continued rain and cold weather a lot of corn would have to be replanted. Where corn is up the stand is poor.

Agent Tanner stated that on account of a good deal of replanting being necessary and poor stands the cotton acreage is liable to be larger than anticipated. There are some farmers who will contend that it is too late to plant corn over in time to insure a good crop and will plant the acreage in cotton, or most of it.

Rich and Poor Benefit Alike From Discovery

Well-Known Dallas Pharmacist Attains Life Ambition

G. M. GORDON

To find a remedy which would answer the requirements of all ailments of the stomach and to which every man, rich and poor, might have equal opportunity for benefit, was the ambition of a kindly hard-working pharmacist, twenty some years ago in a little town in Central Texas.

That man was G. M. Gordon, a well known Dallas pharmacist, now famous as the discoverer of Gordon's Antiseptic for the stomach and bowels—a medicine with a formula so unusual and so efficient in its action that it brought its discoverer $80,000 for the rights to the secret process of compounding and health to thousands of people in all walks of life.

"The greatest obstacle to the successful treatment of stomach troubles," said Mr. Gordon, "was fermentation (souring of food matter in the stomach and bowels), which inflames and irritates these organs and produces gas that causes much distress. Fermentation can only be stopped with an antiseptic."

Gordon's Antiseptic goes right to the seat of stomach troubles, as it exercises a distinctly antiseptic as well as digestive effect. It stops fermentation, soothes and heals the irritated and inflamed condition of the stomach and bowels, relieves indigestion, constipation, gas on the stomach, dyspepsia, heartburn, bloating after meals, bad breath, excess acid, sick headaches, nervousness, tones up the digestive organs and stimulates the stomach and bowels to their normal functions.

Gordon's Antiseptic is sold by good druggists, $1.50 per bottle of 64 doses—less than 3 cents a dose. —Adv.

The advice of a Resident of This Locality Shows a Way

There's nothing more annoying than kidney weakness or inability to properly control the kidney secretions. Night and day alike, the sufferer is tormented and what with the burning and scalding, the attendant backache, headache and dizziness, life is indeed a burden. Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys—have brought peace and comfort to many Paris people. Profit by this Powderly resident's experience:

S. H. Mathrew, carpenter, Tomato Ave., Powderly, Texas, says: "A cold put my kidneys out of fix and they were weak and acted too often, causing me to get up nights. My back felt like a lot of too. There was a steady ache in my back all the time and I couldn't lift much as a keen pain took me across my kidneys and then it was hard to straighten. I felt as if a knife had been stuck in my back. Doan's Pills put my kidneys in good order and stopped the backache."

Plans for troop organization, more extensive training in leadership and other matters of interest will be taken up by Miss Wherry.

When an Oil Well Plays Out Two-Thirds Original Oil is Still in the Sands

Austin, March 22. (AP)—Despite efforts to take oil from the Texas sands, only 35 per cent has been extracted from fields and means of reclaiming lost oil fields will be found, C. V. Terrell, Texas railroad commissioner, claims.

New methods such as compressed air, flooding wells and unwatering which are being used in some of the old fields of Pennsylvania will be used in Texas within a short time, the commissioner believes.

"Until this time oil operators in Texas have exerted every effort and have used every means known to modern science to recover from the many producing horizons in the state, all the oil that the various formations would give up by the present methods of producing, that is, flowing, pumping, swabbing and in some instances by using vacuum," Commissioner Terrell said. "These methods are without a doubt the most remunerative and by far the most economical means of recovering oil as long as the producing sands and other producing formations will give up a sufficient quantity of oil to pay, but the time will eventually come, and in some Texas fields, is not far away, when the natural forces of the earth will not force from the pores of the sand into a well a sufficient quantity of oil to justify the expense of maintaining equipment and operation.

"In practically every production formation there is left in the ground, after the wells have become depleted as far as present methods are concerned, approximately 65 per cent of the oil originally in the sands. In the old fields of Pennsylvania, Ohio and New York, and possibly others, it has been proven by taking cores from new wells drilled and comparing them with the formation in the same field, when discovered, that not more than 35 per cent of the oil had been taken from the sands.

Flooding Sands is One Method

"It seems that there is a wide range in the quantity of oil which can be recovered by flooding the sand with water or by the compressed air process. In the Bradford field it is reported that the porosity of the sand will average 18 per cent. From a tract of 200 acres 11,748 barrels of oil were produced. After the lease expired the wells were flooded and they have produced 10,098 barrels with more production to come. In the same field 41,200 barrels of oil were produced off 24 acres and since the flooding process was applied, 36,199 barrels have been produced. A 90-acre tract, before being depleted, produced 59,000 barrels and 162,618 barrels have been produced by the flooding method.

"In Ohio the compressed air method has been successful. One tract produced 18,308 barrels of oil before depletion, and since the air process has been used 27,515 barrels was the additional output. In a Pennsylvania field one tract produced 2800 barrels a year, and following application of air pressure, the production rose to 10,000 barrels. An average of this quantity was maintained for eight years, the production sometimes mounting to 13,000 barrels, more than four times the quantity produced during the last year of pumping.

Unwatering Method Successful

"Another method is unwatering, the two principal fields using it being the Tidiante and Petroleum Center pioneer fields. There are very old fields and were abandoned years before the use of casing was known. Much criticism was directed at operators who returned to Tidiante about 1905 and who pumped water for months without results, but they are enjoying big dividends now.

"Recovery of the Pioneer field was started in 1917. Large working barrels were installed, the sand drilled through to the bottom, opening up the hole to the water sand as well as the oil, and continuous pumping was kept up for months in an effort to exhaust the water, which was almost accomplished. Production then started."

Commissioner Terrell cited numerous increases in production through the unwatering system.

"There is no question that in many of the fields in Texas the same fundamental conditions exist as in the eastern fields and that being accomplished in those fields will be done in our fields," he said. "I am thoroughly convinced that my statement is correct as it is made from information from reliable sources as to the porosity of the producing formations of bottom water and with other conditions which compare favorably with many of our Texas fields as I know them."

He said that many of the properties in Texas that are now being sold as junk, will eventually become worth more money than they were at the height of their first production. "The same natural conditions exist in many fields in Texas that exist in Ohio, New York and Pennsylvania," Terrell asserted. "It is an undisputed fact as given by the department of internal affairs of the state of Pennsylvania that as a result of the rejuvenation of the old fields by the new methods that properties now selling in abandoned fields where neither water, air or unwatering methods have been used, as high as $1500 an acre. Production in these areas is selling for as much as $15,000 per barrel. However, it is my opinion that the recove r olifoy shrdluu that the flooding and compressed air will be successful only in structural fields."

MINNEAPOLIS MILKMEN REACH HIGH STANDING

Minneapolis — The indispensible milkman, often heard but seldom seen, has been elevated to a high musical standing in Minneapolis through the activities of the male chorus of the Franklin Cooperative Creamery.

This concern, a protege of local trade unions, has cultivated the voices necessarily stilled during the quiet milk delivery hours, until the chorus of 33 members has more offers for local engagements than it can fill.

Drilled by Olaf Halten, base violin player with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, the singing milkmen attained unprecedented heights by appearing in concert at the same music hall retained by the symphony.

WEATHER FAILS TO KILL ENTHUSIASM

Paris Christians Need Zeal of Verdun Defenders, Dr. Scoville Says

The inclement weather prevailing throughout Tuesday did not dampen the enthusiasm of a large crowd of people who attended service last night to hear Evangelist Charles Reign Scoville preach.

"The scandal of the age is the callous unconcern of the professing Christian, and whenever the Christian who names the name of Jesus has the same zeal and determination as the generals and soldiers who defended Verdun, Paris and Lamar county will be taken for Christ," Dr. Scoville said.

The sermon Tuesday night centered around the story of David who went to battle against the common enemy in his effort to restore to Israel her lost possessions. When a portion of the army had been wounded and could go no further in battle David allowed them to rest in a secluded spot and they cared for the army supplies. When the rest returned victorious they did not want to give any of the spoils of battle to the wounded soldiers and it was then David said, which was the text of the sermon, "As His Share that Goeth Down to the Battle, So Shall His Share Be that Tarried by the Stuff."

The church of today should be solving problems and not merely holding services," said the speaker, "and I am sorry to say but there is too much sluggishness in every phase of Christian activity."

Dr. Scoville referred to the great demonstration which took place armistice day and said that when some of the old saints of God who have borne the heat and burden of the early church struggles in this and other communities get to heaven they will receive their share of the heavenly joys.

Speaking of the need of bringing the children to Christ when they are young, Dr. Scoville cited some of the outstanding religious leaders in the world today who were brought to Christ when they were young, and said there is no tragedy equal to that of a mother who holds her child back from confessing Christ.

"You have too many people living in your city today who are a liability instead of an asset," he said, "who could have been real honest-to-God citizens and it is the result of not helping them to Christ when they were young. You are either a force or a farce. The man who is not a goer is a goner."

WHERE THE FUTURE OF PARIS LIES

THE Southwest—of which Lamar county is part and parcel—is preeminently an agricultural section. It has always been so and there is no evidence on which to base any other conclusions as to the future.

Men everywhere engage in three lines of major activities—agriculture, manufacturing, and commerce. In any given area of fairly well settled territory there is more or less activity in all three lines, but in every such area, also, some one of these lines predominates.

Whether a people are given more to agriculture, or to manufacturing, or to commerce depends primarily on which of the three nature has fitted the section for. For the people of a territory are most active and most successful in the particular line for which the natural resources found there have endowed it.

The essentials for a great industrial or manufacturing city or section are an abundance of cheap raw material, an abundance of cheap power, and an easily expanded supply of unskilled and skilled labor. Given the first two of these essentials the other may usually be supplied. But a super-abundance of either of the first two and a scarcity of the other makes industry on a large and prosperity building scale impossible. For instance, the richest iron ores in the world are the brown ores of Cass and Cherokee counties in East Texas, running as high as 67 per cent, and the supply is virtually unlimited. But lack of cheap fuel has made the development of the iron industry in East Texas impossible and will doubtless continue it so for a long time to come.

The essentials for a great commercial center are strategical location between great populations that naturally trade with each other, cheap transportation, and great land-locked harbors. The first mentioned are absolutely essential; the other two are vital contributing factors.

The essentials of successful prosperity building agriculture are a reasonable area of fertile soil, easily cultivated; climatic conditions favorable to the production of marketable crops and livestock; ready access to markets in which there is a growing demand for those very products; and a population of farm trained, farm loving people.

With the exception of cotton, Lamar county produces and can be made to produce but little of raw materials for manufacturing. Resources yet untouched might yet change that condition, although not likely. There is no water power here, the cheapest form of power, and fuel for steam power is very expensive. The abundance of cotton may offset the high cost of power, and Paris may be made a great cotton manufacturing center, but there is little hope of Paris developing any other industries any time soon except small local enterprises.

The utter absence of all the essentials of a great commercial center precludes the necessity of arguing the possibility of Paris ever becoming such.

But the essentials of successful, prosperous agriculture are in superabundance on all sides. Within 50 miles of Paris are more than four million acres of highly productive lands. There is no more favorable climate anywhere for the production of marketable crops and livestock. And the best markets in the world for the things this section produces and can produce are easily accessible. Unquestionably, in parceling out the essentials for successful human activity, nature was parsimonious toward Paris as touching industry and commerce, but extremely lavish in the essentials for successful, prosperous agriculture.

These facts are in nowise inimical to the industries Paris has or that may be established here. They are simply unescapable in considering the future development of Paris.

Paris can be and will be the great retail center of a great agricultural section, with a reasonable development of local manufacturing industries and jobbing interests. There is a possibility of Paris becoming a considerable cotton goods manufacturing center. But Paris' great possibilities lie along the lines of agricultural development, and it is to this that the energies of the community—while not overlooking other things—should be persistently addressed.

AN old superstition of obscure origin is responsible for imposing a severe handicap on Japanese girls who are twenty years old this year. It is said that they must all be so bad-tempered as to be unsuitable for wives. This unlucky time occurs every sixty-one years and although the superstition is waning, there are large numbers of parents who will not allow their sons to marry girls under this cloud. A number of this year's unlucky girls have taken up professional work in the belief that they are doomed to remain single.

THE BEST OF ADVICE

CREATURE OF HABIT

By Clark Kinnaird.

IT is an ancient platitude that if we do not master our habits, they will master us.

Man is a creature of habit, and he must be to live in the sort of world we have around us.

Habits are like the boards in a building; they must be good ones if the structure is to be proof against the disturbances of life. It behooves the individual man to be constantly repairing his habits; putting in good ones where bad ones develop, else when storms come around his house will wobble and shake, and eventually collapse.

Two maxims have been laid down for those who are endeavoring to acquire a new habit, or to leave off an old one.

The first is, —Launch yourself with as strong and decided an initiative as possible. Accumulate all the possible circumstances which shall reinforce the right motives; put yourself in conditions that encourage the new way; remove yourself from the environment of the old; take a public pledge if the case allows; in short, envelop your resolution with every aid you know.

The second maxim, is—Never allow an exception to occur until the new habit is securely rooted in your daily life. Each lapse is like the letting fall of a ball of string which one is carefully winding up; a single slip undoes more than a great many turns will wind again. Continuity of training is the great means of making the nervous system act infallibly right, it has been established over and over.

* * * * *

William James adds a third maxim to the preceding pair; Seize the very first possible opportunity to act on every resolution you make, and on every emotional prompting you may experience in the direction of the habits you aspire to gain.

No matter how full a reservoir of maxims one may possess, and no matter how good one's sentiments may be, if one has not taken advantage of every concrete opportunity to act, one's character may remain entirely unaffected for the better. With mere good intentions, hell is proverbially paved.

* * * * *

"A character," John Stewart Mills says, "is a completely fashioned will," and a will, in the sense in which he means is an aggregate of tendencies to act in a firm and prompt and definite way upon all the emergencies of life.

William James observes that a tendency to act only becomes effectively ingrained in us in proportion to the uninterrupted frequency with which the actions actually occur and the brain "grows" to their use.

"When a resolve or a fine flow of feeling is allowed to evaporate without bearing practical fruit it is worse than a chance lost; it works so positively to hinder the future resolutions and emotions from taking the normal path of discharge.

"There is no more contemptibly type of human character than that of the nerveless sentimentialist and dreamer, who spends his life in a weltering sea of sensibility and emotion, but who never does a manly concrete deed."

WORLD TOPICS

SAYS WORLD NEEDS "LINCOLN TOUCH"

By Sir Esme Howard
British Ambassador to the U. S., in a speech.

THE political affairs of the world sorely need the Lincoln touch Had Lincoln been present at the Versailles peace conference he would have created a different atmosphere and many causes of strife would have disappeared.

He was one of the very few really great men of all time, and I am prepared to go further than that. Comparing him with the characters and records of other great statesmen and makers of history, he seems to be unique among them and to occupy a solitary pinnacle of grandeur, which no shafts of spite or malice or even criticism can ever reach.

SIR ESME HOWARD

This is not so much on account of what he did as of what he was. Other men perhaps have achieved as much, the mark they have left in history may have been as great, but I can think of no other man who rose to such heights of power as he did, who commanded during such troublous and critical times, who was personally so violently attacked and at the same time so enthusiastically applauded.

I can think of no other man in history who, having done so much and suffered so much, yet remained so charitable in his judgments, so entirely without guile or malice, so completely and absolutely without thought of self, so incapable of any mean or ignoble action in order to push his own interests, or, indeed for any purpose whatever. Therefore he seems to me unique indeed—a character to hold up for the admiration of ourselves, our children and our children's children for all time.

We can but wish that there had been some men of his peculiar character and gifts to help us all in the peace settlement after the late war It is not difficult to believe that if his wisdom and patience and charity had been brought to bear on the terribly difficult problem of re-establishing the peace spirit throughout the world, more—a great deal more—might have been accomplished than has been accomplished.

I cannot but believe that Lincoln would naturally have furthered and promoted by all the means in his power all policies aiming to establish world peace—so far as he believed them compatible with the interests of his own country.

The Passing of Old Dobbin

ANDREW AND IMOGENE

By Roe Fulkerson

"I am bored," Andrew yawned. "I have read every magazine in the house. I am almost willing to play mah jong."

"Let's go up in the sun parlor and listen to the radio," suggested Imogene.

"You never get any real music out of that thing," scorned Andrew. "The only noises which come out of the suffering end of a radio are those put in at the broadcasting end. They never have music there."

"Never have music?"

"Not in its higher and better sense," explained Andrew. "Have you ever heard a fine performer on the mouth organ or French harp as we used to call it when I was a boy? I have heard darkies who could wrap their lips around a harmonica and make it sing like a mocking bird or play religious spiritulettes like a fat alto singer at a camp meeting.

"What the Hawaiians did to guitar playing was what Dempsey did to prize fighting; they made it a lost art. Those birds take a piece of steel in their left hands and a piece of bone in their rights and, as they slide the steel up and down the neck of the guitar, they scratch it on the strings with the piece of bone. No self-respecting guitar can perform under such conditions. Every guitar player who ever really made you want to run away from home and sit under some girl's window and sing all night, picked the strings of a guitar with one hand and held them down on the neck with the other one.

"Nobody knows how to play a banjo these days. Men who teach banjo players are reformed performers on one of those little flat-sided gourds they call a mandolin. To be a good banjo player these days, you only have to have St. Vitus dance and a celluloid pick in your right hand.

"They have even taken the little thumb string of the l.f. of the neck because they didn't know how to play it. Anyone who ever heard an old time negro pick a banjo and sing 'Old Black Joe' knows that Paul Whiteman or Vincent Lopez wouldn't know a banjo player if they heard one.

"Have you ever heard a Jew's harp on the radio. No sir. A Jew's harp is too sweet and subtle for a radio to transmit it. I have heard a country boy with a five cent Jew's harp between his lips twanging away at the Arkansas Traveler so happy and so carried away with his own concord of sweet sounds that he would walk right off a high bank into a creek in the winter time. Ah, there is a musical instrument which a man can put his very soul into. Neither performer nor listener knows what is being played, but it has in it the drone of bumble bees around a clover blossom, the hum of June bugs up and down the corn rows, the flutter of the butterflies across a bed of marigolds, in an old fashioned garden.

"I used to be a right good performer on a Jew's harp myself, and there have been times when I was so carried away with my own music that I completely forgot the five pounds of lard Mother sent me to the grocery for and walked right through town out into the great outdoors and sat in a fence corner a whole summer afternoon just playing. It seems to me that the pipes of Pan have changed to the Jew's harp and the country boy has all Pan's inspiration when he plays it and—"

"Excuse me, dear, "interrupted Imogene, "but the room is getting cold. You had better go down and shake up the furnace a little."

Andrew looked at her reproachfully and left the room with a dejected air.

LIVING and LOVING

BY FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT © 1926

Spring Song

"Where the River Shannon flows,
Where the three-leafed shamrock grows,
Where my heart is, there I'm going
To my little Irish rose"—

The day that had begun just as do all other days in early March underwent a sudden metamorphosis, took on new radiance.

A catch in breath until that second calmly measured, a quickening of the heart beat ,a thrill entirely unexpected and not altogether accounted for, but quickening the joy of living.

And all because of rollicking, raggedy, r-slurring son of Erin down in the sun flooded street beneath our window with a lusty rendering of old familiar song shattered into pieces the quiet Sabbath morning.

Welcome harbinger of spring!

Beyond doubt amazed would have been the modern minstrel who sang in part because he could not help it, but in great part for the nickels and dimes that rained upon him from the listeners-in could he have fancied himself in such a role. Yet that's exactly what he was in that wilderness of wind-swept streets, his lifted voice bore prophecy of happier things:

Of greensward carpeting yielding soil;
Of errant zephyrs playing hide and seek among the treetops;
Of cowslip and buttercup holding court in marshes;
Of violets sweet and shy;
Of love melodies from birdland orchestras;
Of swishing of wings—flashes of scarlet and orange and blue across the cat-o-nine-tails;
Of soap-bubbly clouds floating in the azure bowl;
Of white spray flecking bright blue waters;
Of rose tinted dawn; of night, starlit and fragrant with breath of slumbering flowers;
Of highways streaming motor cars;
Of rocks dotted with gay picnickers;
Of merrymakers' laden craft; of countless human corks bobbing in the whitecaps;
Of children skipping ropes, and old folks resting on the benches, and lovers walking hand in hand between youth and age.

All these things foretold in the Spring Song of a ragged roving minstrel.

Wise Sayings of Mrs. Solomon

Go to, my Daughter. The Fool said in her heart, "I will bind my Beloved unto me with gifts and burnt offerings!"

"Yea, I will fashion garlands, and shower him with monogrammed handkerchiefs, and embroidered cushions and home-cooked dinners. I will offer to mend his hose, and replace the buttons upon his garments."

"Verily, I will make myself more necessary unto him than a spare tire and more comforting than a mother. And, he will reward me with devotion and everlasting gratitude!"

Yet, alas, who do all her labors profit her?

For, a woman unto whom a man OWETH anything, whether it be money or devotion or gratitude shall never collect it!

And NO man loveth a creditor!

He fleeth before the damsel that pursueth him with invitations, and trembleth before her that voweth him with hospitality and "thoughtfulness." He dodgeth the "too-kind" damsel, as a bill-collector!

But she that findeth him a "good thing," and permitteth him to bestow favors and to wait upon her and sacrifice himself for her, shall be "cherished," forever.

For, every man desireth to be himself, the Mighty Benefactor, the bestower of gifts and the doer of charity! Yea, every man delighteth to play Santa Claus unto a woman!

And naught so toucheth his heart and rejoiceth his vanity as the look of gratitude in a woman's eye, when she sayeth, "Oh, thou generous and wonderful man!"

How long, then, oh ye Foolish Ones, will ye seek to win men's hearts with bribes and kisses and "kindnesses" and false bait?

For, verily, a woman resembleth a dog, which is full of thankfulness for whatsoever it receiveth. But a man is like unto a cat, in whom there is NO remembrance of past favors.

Therefore, I charge thee, to make a man forget thee, cover him with kindness and smother him with philanthropy.

But, to make him REMEMBER thee, let him serve thee!

For a man's love may live forever upon vanity—but not for a day, upon GRATITUDE!

OUTDOORS APPEALS TO MANY MOVIE ACTORS

Hollywood — John Barrymore, who left Broadway this season to work in the movies, has become a typical Isaak Walton.

Whenever he finds a day away from the camera, he packs up and goes on a fishing trip.

"There is nothing that gives me so much peace of mind and rest of body," he said.

Syd Chaplin and Monte Blue, who also are in the cortege of Warner Brothers stars, are athletes. They play tennis, golf, ride horseback and go in for regular gymnastics.

When Irene Rich is not working at the studio or on location, she utilizes many of her spare moments in designing costumes for new pictures. Her favorite sport is horseback riding.

Willard Louis' hobby is raising chrysanthemums and his flowers usually carry away prizes at the yearly Hollywood show.

Dolores Costello, who appeared opposite Barrymore in "The Sea Beast," has danced since she was a child and she intends to keep it up with her work in the movies.

Not one but several are the hobbies of Louise Fazenda. One is collecting ancient china. Another is reading and a third is the collection of tapestries.

Patsy Ruth Miller has a roadster and she spends hours in it.

All of the Warner directors spend much of their time in reading and research work. Ernst Lubitsch has a large library in which he may be found almost any time he is not directing. Occasionally, however, he is seen in a swimming pool.

WEATHER BUREAU ADDS "SMOG" TO ITS LANGUAGE

Indianapolis, Ind. — The United States weather bureau has given a new word "smog" to the American language. It is used to describe a combination of smoke and fog which occurs chiefly over the cities of the central states.

Indianapolis has popularized the word because of the fight being waged to eliminate the smoky condition.

"Smog" prevails when smoke and fog unite at the same destiny the smoke particles in a chill air and being carried along in a fog blanket, said J. H. Armington, weather forecaster.

DEFECTIVE TEETH AFFECT MORALS

Houston Dental Society Says They Often Also Cause Facial Deformities

Houston, March 26. (AP)—Defective teeth affect juvenile morals as well as the health of adolescents and many times result in facial deformities.

This information was disseminated by two agencies during national dental week which is sponsored by the state health department.

The Houston Dental Society called particular attention to malocclusion, which is a perversion of the normal way in which the upper teeth mesh with the lower. If often results, it was explained, in facial deformity.

Willis A. Sutton superintendent of schools at Atlanta, Ga., said in the Texas School Journal, published at Dallas, that he personally knew a number of boys who had been transformed from daredevils and potential lawbreakers into useful members of society merely by the discoverey and proper care of defective teeth. The series of incidents related by Professor Sutton borders on the remarkable.

"I ran across a boy, whom I tried in every possible way to retain in school," he said. "Finally there came a note from seven teachers saying that unless I suspended this boy they would resign. I told him we couldn't afford to get rid of seven good teachers. He began to cry. As he cried I saw his teeth. They were foul.

"A new thought came over me. It flashed over me like this: 'I won't suspend you from school if you will have your teeth fixed.' At my direction he went home, got a note from his father that his teeth would be attended to and I did not hear from him for two months. Finally I asked the teachers what had become of him. They said he was 'a fine student, getting along splendidly and giving no further trouble, not a bit.'

"He went through our technical high school and from there to Georgia Tech. He graduated, went into the Georgia state highway department, and he is there now, one of the most efficient engineers we have today in the state of Georgia.

"I didn't know at that time how much really depended upon having the boy's teeth fixed. But I believe now that more than I thought depended upon it.

"I had another experience. We had what we call a school for incorrigible boys. As principal of the high school I was given some supervision also over this school.

"One day someone came rushing in and told me that I had better go out yonder. He is going to kill somebody.' I went out and found a big army sergeant with a brick. The teachers said he must be expelled because he was always fighting and kept everybody in a turmoil. I looked in that boy's mouth and sent him to a dentist. He is now one of the finest boys in America."

An Atlanta citizen gave Professor Sutton $3,600 to spend in any way he saw fit for the public good. He determined, he relates, to use the money in children's dental work. A dentist was placed in one school with an enrollment of 987, and the teeth of each of the pupils was placed in first class condition.

"Nine months later, I took the percentage of failures among those 987 children the year before and compared it with the percentage the year the dentist was functioning. Twenty-two per cent was the percentage of failures the previous year, as compared with 8 per cent after the teeth of the children were fixed."

Then Professor Sutton determined on a broader test of his theory. He asked teachers in 18 rooms in the school to send him the child the teacher thought the poorest in the room, "the one that has almost no chance of passing an examination."

"I assembled 18 of that type," he said. "We sent them by special arrangement to dentists' offices in Atlanta. I kept those children from saying anything about their visit to the dentist in the presence of their teachers. I didn't allow the teachers to know what I was doing with the children.

"At the end of the year, of the 18 boys and girls, for whom the teachers had said there was not a single ray of hope, 17 passed all subjects, and the other failed in but one subject."

RABBIT MENACE TO CROPS CAUSES WIDESPREAD KILL

Denver.—To the East Side New Yorker who buys none too fresh rabbit meat out of barrels, the annual slaughter on the Western plains would seem a waste. To the Easterner, whole "bunny" hunting is limited by law, it might seem a blessing to have so much game about.

Rabbits are not scare game to Westerners, however. They are considered a pest. Consequently, more than 500,000 "jacks" have been killed in Colorado this winter, and the other Western states have followed suit. Thousands are killed annually.

Rabbits are herbiverous, and enormous eaters for their size. Contrary to some opinion, they do not subsist altogether on tender lettuce leaves, parsley and carrots.

They eat almost everything that grows in the fields or gardens. They mow down beans, peas, lettuce, celery, beet top, and even corn and wheat. When they can not get anything else they eat grass. They have been known to ruin groves of young trees in nurseries.

The annual crop loss because of rabbit runs into millions of dollars. As a result, the last Colorado legislature passed a law permitting county commissioners to offer bounties for dead "jacks." Several counties this year paid a cent to a cent and a half for every pair of ears. Boys earn pocket money killing them, but nearly all the casualties are accountable to drives by farmers.

Townspeople join in, and the drives, usually held on Sundays, resemble old time basket dinners. Men, women and children bring their dinners and stay all day. Rabbit campaigns have become community institutions.

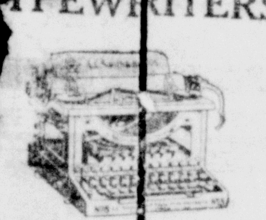

Washington county's drives are representative of Colorado. More than 50,000 have been killed there so far this winter and it is estimated 25,000 more will die before summer.

A successful drive requires an army of hunters. Near Akron, 1,000 persons herded the rabbits into a V-shaped woven wire trap half a mile across at the mouth. Not a gun was used, or allowed, the trapped rabbits being dispatched with clubs and stones.

Every Christmas thousands of poor families throughout the state dine on rabbit meat, provided from the drives. At this time of year most of the rabbits so obtained are turned into hog feed.

Next year, the East may get a shot at some of the pesky creatures. The Colorado American Legion plans to advertise the West by turning loose 5,000 on the city of Philadelphia at the Legion convention next fall. Previously the former soldiers will catch them alive by means of the wire traps and ship them East in box cars.

RINSE WITH LEMON TO GET HAIR CLEAN

When you wash your hair a curd left from the soap stays on it, and rinsing with plain water won't remove it.

As long as that curd is there the hair can't be really clean. It can't show its natural gloss and sheen. Can't keep its curl.

But rinse with an ordinary wash-bowl full of water into which you've squeezed the juice of two California lemons, and follow by plain water rinse.

The lemon juice removes the curd. Your hair is clean, soft, lustrous. The color is enhanced. The curl stays in.

Keep a dozen lemons always handy for this rinse.

Ask for California lemons, rich in acid juice, the juice that gets the soap-curd from the hair. Fresh the year 'round at any store.—Adv.

HELEN WILLS MAKES SWEEP FOUR MATCHES

Rome, March 30. (AP)—Helen Wills, the American woman tennis champion, made a clean sweep in four exhibition matches before an enthusiastic gallery at the exclusive tennis club of Rome today.

In a singles match she defeated a male opponent, Georgio De Stefano, 6-3; in mixed doubles she and De Stefano defeated Signor Severini and Contesina Allina Machi, a 17 year old girl whose mother was American 6-4. Then, without stopping to rest, Miss Wills put to rout two doubles teams of men. She and De Stefano defeated Clemente Serventi, last year's champion of Rome, and Giovanni Dalgas, 6-0; and she and Clemente Serventi defeated Augusto Serventi and Nathan Joel by the same score.

The American champion was in her best form and the strength of her driving made her male opponents resort to desperate but futile efforts to return many of her shots. Although she smiled frequently Miss Wills seemed entirely to disregard the gallery, which today even more than yesterday was filled with persons high in Rome society.

REGISTRATION CONTINUES IN TACNA-ARICA ELECTION

Arica, Chile, March 30. (AP)—The Peruvians retained their attitude of refraining from furthering the Tacna-Arica plebiscite proceedings at today's brief session of the plebiscitary commission under the chairmanship of Major General William Lassiter, U. S. A.

The chief Peruvian delegate, Senor Freyre y Santander refrained from voting when the commission approved further technical measures for carrying out the plebiscitary registrations. It is understood he holds that, under the invitation for a direct settlement through the good offices of the United States, there shall be a suspension of the plebiscitary proceedings.

Lacking instructions to that effect from Washington the commission did not consider the possibility of interrupting the proceedings and the registrations which began last week, will continue.

The ashes, in accordance with a request of Mrs. Hasbrouck, will be scattered upon the sea.

The Thompson will leave the harbor at midnight Wednesday, carrying, in addition to the copper urn containing the naval officer's ashes, several sacks of fleet mail.

SOLITARY MONK REMNANT OF LIFE IN OLD CITY

Erivan, Russian Armenia.—Ani, an ancient Armenian city, within the shadow of Mount Ararat probably has the smallest population of any city in the world.

Data gathered by the American Near East Relief shows that an aged Armenian monk is the sole inhabitant of the city, which once had a population of 100,000 [illegible] only companions are an Angora cat and a few owls which live in a ruined church near the monk's hut.

Ani was once a flourishing city and was the residence for several centuries of the Bagratide Kings of Armenia. From the eighth to the tenth century it was under the domination of the caliphs of Bagdad, among whom was the romantic and scholarly Haroun-al-Rachid, hero of a dozen stories in the "Arabian Nights." But Ani is now in ruins, and the Armenians are too poor to rebuild it. It is 600 years since the city throbbed with the pulse of human life.

ARROW ROCK TAVERN IS TO BE PRESERVED

St. Louis, March 17. (AP)—Word has been received here that Arrow Rock Tavern, located at Arrow Rock, Mo., just west of the central part of the state, has been remodeled by the Daughters of the American Revolution of Missouri, and will be opened to visitors in the next few days. The tavern is one of the oldest in the state and was the gathering place for many men renowned in the early history of the country.

A great many traditions hang about this 96 year old tavern located on the old Santa Fe trail and such famous characters as Kit Carson, the scout; Lewis and Clark, the explorers; and the Marmadukes, have gathered at the spacious taproom for many social hours. It is the boast of the township, in which the hotel is situated, that it is not only the birthplace of Governor Marmaduke, an early leader in direction of Missouri's affairs, but furnished four wives of governors.

The tavern was built by Joseph Hutson, who used his slaves to turn bricks for the exterior walls and to hew walnut logs for all of the interior woodwork and framework. A brother of Hutson, who was a blacksmith, furnished massive hand-wrought hinges and the other metal work for the structure.

A delightful, creepy sense of mystery pervades the whole house. None of the floors is on the same level. One goes down a step into the dining room, up steps into the taproom, down steps into the old kitchen with its huge fireplace, now walled up and supplanted by ranges.

From the office one goes up four steps to a door that opens onto a landing, and then a stairs that takes you into a front bedroom where towers a four-poster canopied bed in which George Washington once slept before the Sappington family brought it in an oxcart to Arrow Rock from Philadelphia.

Perhaps the most attractive room is the taproom, which was the favorite haunt of Indians, pioneers, Santa Fe trailers and Civil War soldiers. It is long and wide, with quaint, square-paned window lights and door sashes. Its double doors open onto Main street. At the other end is a huge fireplace with a door beside it, with slots and heavy iron bars, opening into the backyard.

In front of the fireplace is a trap door leading down into the wine cellar—empty now. But in the throat of the chimney there still hangs the little iron pot which was kept steaming hot for the ready mixing of drinks.

The taproom is filled with relics of pioneer history and it is now a community room. Here are Chief Geronimo's war bonnet, Daniel Boone's gun and ox yoke, the desk used by Claiborne Jackson when he wrote his famous war proclamation; antiques, important documents, displays of ancient firearms and other things which figured in early history.

The tavern was repaired with state funds appropriated by the Missouri state legislature and the building will remain under the care of the Daughters of the American Devolution.

The town Arrow Rock derived its name from a nearby cliff. It is said several young Indian warriors assembled on a sandbar opposite the cliff in a contest for the hand of an Indian maiden. One of them shot an arrow across the river and it lodged in a crevice of the cliff above the water; and so the cliff became known as "Arrow Rock."

GOVERNOR'S MANSION NOT LIKE "HOME" TO MRS. ROSS

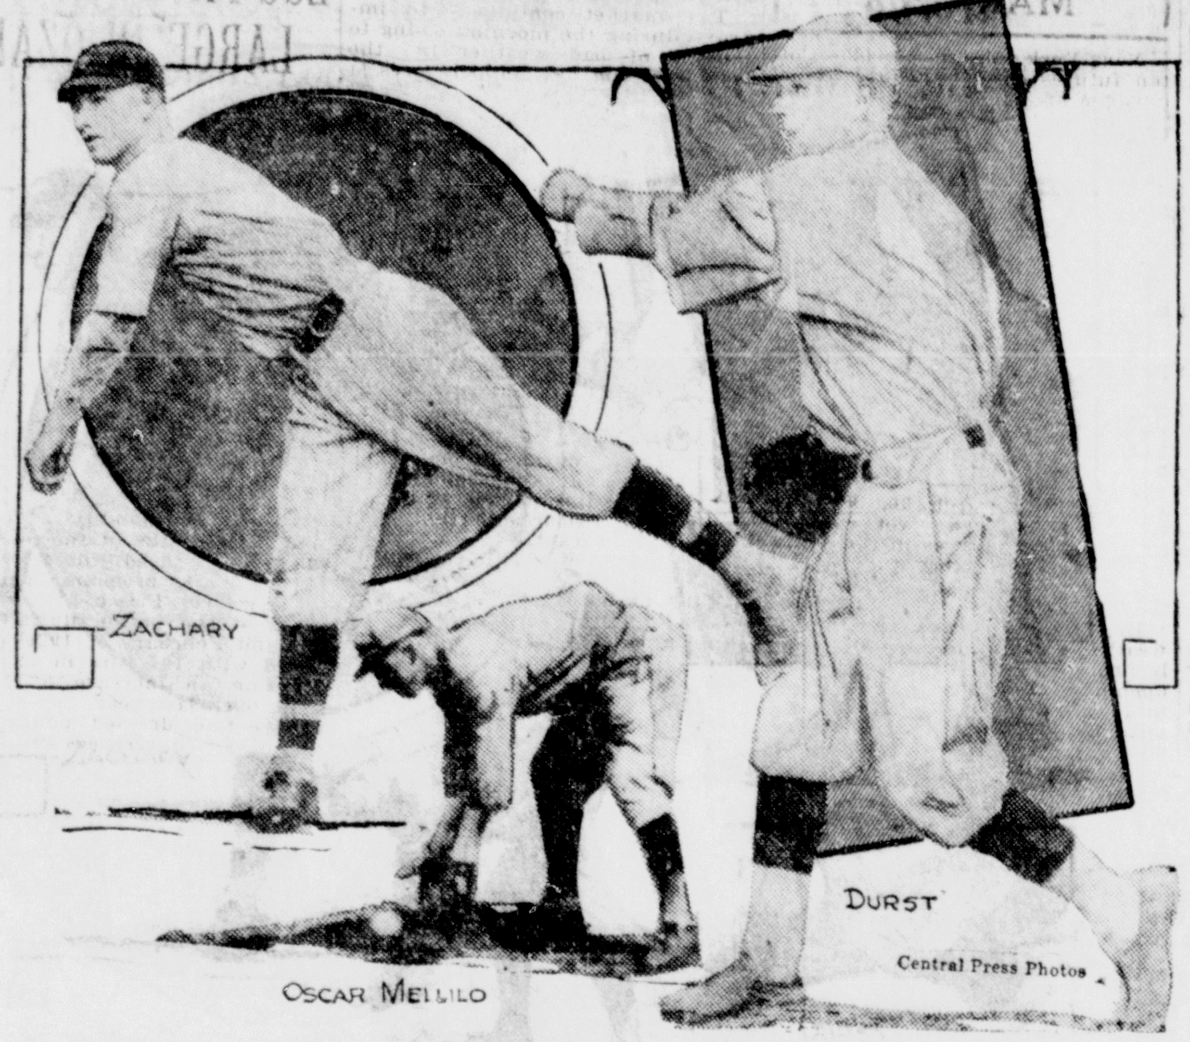

Cheyenne.—The gubernatorial mansion of Wyoming is not like "home" to Gov. Nellie Ross.

Mrs. Ross has lived three years in the mansion provided by Wyoming for its state executives, two of them while her husband was governor and for the last year as his elected successor.

Despite the mansion's magnificence, Mrs. Ross says "it is not like my modest home, where I lived from the early days of marriage and where my children grew up." The fireplace of her own home is the chief thing she misses in her occupancy of the gubernatorial dwelling.

Browns Look and Feel Like Pennant Winners

BY NORMAN E. BROWN
Central Press Sports Editor

"This is our year!"

That's the cry with the St. Louis Browns.

Strengthened in the pitching box (the perennial Archilles heel of the team), boasting better infield reserve strength and new blood to inject into the outfield if necessary Sisler's men believe they have the team to win the 1926 American league pennant.

I am afraid they will fall short again.

This only by a few games perhaps.

They have, apparently, better pitching than they had last year. "Zeb" Zachary, veteran lefthander from Washington, is due to win 15 or 16 games, some of which have gone by the boards in the past due to lack of efficient southpawing. Milton Gaston, the youngster who won 16 games for Sisler last year after being traded to the team by the Yanks, is set to win more than that this year. I feel that way. Dixie Davis and Elam Vangilder have been about ready to break into the big money for several seasons. Each year they seemed set to win 20 or more games each for Sisler. But so far they haven't done it. They can't be counted on for more than the usual 12 or 14 victories. Joe Giard and Jess Wingard are the two hurlers who can help the team reach the top. Giard is the "to boot" hurler obtained from the Yankees a year ago in the Bush deal. Wingard is the nifty left-hander who set the league on fire his first year up but didn't have such success last season. He should be more effective this year after a year of tempering before big league hurling.

Watch Robertson, is Tip

But I look for Charley Robertson to prove the sensation of the staff. As I have said before, this former White Sox star who petered out after hurling a no-hit game a few years ago, seems to have found himself with the Browns. It may be the knowledge that he no longer has a reputation to live up to. It may also be that he feels he will get in on some world's series gravy if he steps a bit. American league hurlers will tell you that Robertson is a whale of a pitcher when he is going good.

Chester Falk is an unknown quantity. This comprises the list of pitching possibilities.

Now the point is that with the addition of Zachary, the added experience gained by Wingard and Giard and the confidence the work of these men should instill in the war horses, Davis and Vangilder, the Browns should have better pitching. But this is perhaps as much hope as it is logic. There is nothing tangible on which to base the opinion that the hurling will be enough better to down the Athletics, for instance.

In Connie Mack's case it is reasonable to suppose that Sammy Gray will not suffer another broken wrist this year. Lefty Groves' pitching weakness, a glaring fault, has been discovered. There are two definite reasons for believing the Macks will have better hurling.

Infield Strong and Young

As far as the rest of the team is concerned Sisler has a sweet ball club. Sisler's still Sisler on first. Marty McManus, who should give Lee Fohl more credit than he does for making him a ball player, is one of the game's great second basemen. Wallie Gerber is a brilliant shortstop and Gene Robertson a great third baseman. I don't know of a sweeter infield in the game outside the Giants perhaps.

And this year Sisler has, in addition to Bobby La Motte as utility infielder, Oscard Melillo, the fielding whiz from Milwaukee. Melillo has been given a thorough test at second and short and has shown he can deliver either place. This gives Sisler ample protection in the infield. To cover up breaks in his lineup he can shift McManus from second to third, if need be, put Melillo at second or short, use La Motte at third or short if forced to.

Loss of Vets Won't Be Blow

Sisler has already prepared for the further disintegrotion of his once great batting outfeld trio, Williams, Jacobson and Tobin. The latter of course is gone. Sisler believes that Cedric Durst, madeover first baseman, can fill Jacobson's shoes in center when the time comes. Hershel Bennett will take Williams' place when the home run clouter finds the work in the outfield too hard. Both youngsters are fast outfielders and good hitters.

Bill Hargrave, obtained last year from Washington, Leo Dixon and the veteran Schang are ready to share the catching burden. My feeling is that Schang will handle the youngsters—at least until hot weather takes the pep out of the husky old timer. Hargrave's work has been impressive all spring according to St. Louis scribes with the team since the opening of the training season.

Sisler's team has the batting power to carry on as usual. His defense, as far as the inner wall is concerned, has been bolstered. The pitching still remains his problem. If his hopes regarding Zachary, Giard and Wingard are realized he may force the Athletics to the last ditch and finally beat them down. But as the teams appear now Connie Mack has the edge.

SEVERE STORM HITS LOUISIANA TOWN

Hammond, La., March 30, (AP)—High wind, rain and hail swept this section this morning unroofing several buildings and damaging many automobiles at Independence. A number of children experienced a narrow escape. As they alighted from a large bus and entered the school building at Independence, the storm struck, demolishing the vehicle they had just left.

SKULL PRACTICE

Rube Marquard, manager of Providence Eastern league team, has let Pitcher Ogrodowsky go. Rube got tired spelling the lad's name for the newspapermen.

Lefty Groves, Athletics' southpaw, avers his name is spelled without the "s." Says he's just a few trees and not a whole forest.

Judging from the work of the hurlers in the exhibition games this spring the majority of first balls tossed at the opening games this year are going to be wild.

Moe Berg, young shortstopping gent with the White Sox, is resuming his law studies these days—to find out how much longer Everett Scott's legs ought to last by the law of averages.

Babe Ruth says he is in good shape for a good year. That settles the discussion—as far as Ruth is concerned.

Most pitchers carry a bat to the plate in the vain hope of fooling the opposing hurler into thinking there's a batter up.

Judge Landis is human after all. He likes to be kidded about the hat he wears.

Archie Compston, British golf pro, found a much different thrill in playing golf in America—and deposited the thrill in the bank after every match.

Songer, pitcher being tried out by the Pirates, may prove to be a very good hurler but he's very poor English.

STATE COLLECTS BIG INHERITANCE TAXES

Austin, March 30. (AP)—Since September 1, 1925, a total of $668,874.49 has been collected in inheritance taxes from 203 estates, Comptroller S. H. Terrell announced today.

More than 160 estates are now filed with his department, pending final settlement and Mr. Terrell predicted at the end of the fiscal year there would be paid into the general fund a million dollars from inheritance taxes.

"Only 51 of the 252 organized counties of the state have reported estates for inheritance tax purposes since September 1," Mr. Terrell said. "Most of the estates have been reported from large cities. This may indicate that many of our wealthier citizens retire to the cities to spend their last days.

"Too, the fact that inheritance tax division has so small a force to check probate records may account for so few estates being reported from the smaller and outlying counties."

The amount collected since September 1, is more than $200,000 in excess of the amount realized from the inheritance tax source from the time the law went into effect in August 1923, until he took charge, Mr. Terrell said.

FLOOD CONTROL ON RED RIVER MAY BE EFFECTED

Washington, March 30. (AP)—The house flood control committee on Thursday will consider the measures by Representative Rayburn, Democrat, Texas, and Representative McKeown, Democrat, Oklahome, to provide for flood control preliminary examinations of Red River and its tributaries and the Washita river of Oklahoma. If approved by the committee, the projects will be included in the flood control omnibus bill which has been drafted by the subcommittees of the flood control committee.

THREATEN TO CANCEL BURGLARY INSURANCE

Wichita Falls, March 30, (AP)—Wichita Falls faces cancellation of burglary insurance policies unless some decided improvement in law enforcemet shows up speedily. This announcement was made by insurance men yesterday at a meeting of about fifty prominent men, called to discuss some means of bringing a halt to the recent robberies which in two nights cost local business firms approximately $10,000.

Resolutions were adopted at the meeting branding the police department as "inefficient" and calling for immediate reorganization of the department. J. C. Mytinger, president of the chamber of commerce, called the meeting, which, at the expense of the police, soon developed into an indignation session. Alleged inefficiency of the police force was charged in several talks. Mayor R. E. Sheppard pledged the full support of the council in any steps taken to remedy the situation.

Ford

When You Trade Your Car—

Ford owners are continually being approached by automobile salesmen who wish to "accept" Fords as part payment on more expensive cars.

It is perfectly logical that automobile dealers everywhere should be eager to trade with Ford owners. The Ford is the most popular automobile in the world. No other used car is so easy to sell as a used Ford — because everyone has confidence in Ford quality. And it is not expensive to re-condition, since Ford replacement parts are lowest in price.

Most automobiles carry greater discounts to dealers than the Ford — another reason why other dealers may offer the Ford owner a larger trade-in allowance.

But when you come to buy a new car, bear these facts in mind:

The amount of the trade-in allowance you can get is not the most important thing for you to consider. The big thing is the difference you have to pay. And remember, that the higher priced car will not be so easy to dispose of when you come to trade it in.

If you wish to trade your Ford for a new automobile, stick to the car that you know to be dependable, useful and economical. Go to your Ford dealer!

He will give you a fair and liberal allowance for your present Ford and will gladly arrange payment of the balance to suit your convenience.

When the deal is over, and you have your new and improved Ford, you will have the satisfaction of knowing positively that you took advantage of the greatest automobile value the world has ever seen — and saved a lot of money, too.

New York, March 30. (AP)—Reports of continued wet weather and low temperatures in the South were responsible for further advances in the cotton market early today.

Buying on the unfavorable weather was promoted by relatively firm Liverpool cables and after opening firm at an advance of 9 to 14 points, active months moved up 10 to 16 points, new high ground for the movement.

Private cables attributed the advance in Liverpool to good trade calling and continental buying of new crops. Locally there was further covering, trade and commission house buying, which seemed to be inspired by fear of delay in the planting season.

Renewed weakness in the stock market was accompanied by a little more Wall Street selling of cotton and prices eased off to 18.93 for May and 17.82 for October in early afternoon. Expectation of another unfavorable weather map tomorrow was a sustaining influence however.

New Orleans, March 30. (AP)—The cotton market opened firm with first trades showing gains of 10 to 12 points. The advance was due to the general bad weather in the belt with heavy snow and low temperatures in the West.

The market continued to improve during the morning owing to reports of bad weather in the belt including low temperatures, a snow in the West and rains and stormy weather in the central belt. May traded up to 18.42, July to 18.06 and October to 17.43 or 20 to 21 points above the close of yesterday.

The market continued to ease off for a time after noon owing to lack of supporting orders due to wire trouble in the interior and most months made new lows. Later in the afternoon prices rallied moderately recovering 4 to 8 points from the lows. The bad weather continues to be the dominating influence in the market.

Fort Worth Livestock

Ft. Worth, March 30. (AP)—Fewer arrivals and a consequent better feeling in the trade were the outstanding features in the Tuesday cattle market.

Receipts 1000 grown cattle, 400 calves.

Beef cattle sparely represented—one full load and a few bunches of grass stuff coming in mixed loads. Range took in steers at $6.50 to $7.60.

Calves wanted, and the market showed advance of a quarter on light veals. Desirable strong weight vealers up to $10.25.

Hogs arrived—300 to packers, 600 to market. After some delay the market settled on a steady basis, light butchers $12.65

Chicago Grain

Chicago, March 30. (AP)—Notwithstanding a temporary setback about midday resulting from pronounced weakness in the New York stock market, wheat today advanced sharply in the late dealings. Buying of the Chicago May delivery of wheat disclosed a dearth of offerings, and previous speculative sellers made haste to even up their accounts.

Predictions were current of a tight situation developing as the end of the old crop season comes nearer.

Wheat closed firm, 5-8 to 1 5-8 cent net higher.

EGG PRODUCTION LARGE IN OZARKS

Frisco Shipments of Poultry and Eggs from Territory Show Big Growth

Springfield, Mo., March 31.—Ozark hens have literally "strutted their stuff since the first of the year.

Records of the agricultural department of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway company show that never before in the 15 year history of the department has the car-lot movement of eggs from the Ozark mountain territory even approximated the loadings of that particular commodity during the first two months of the year.

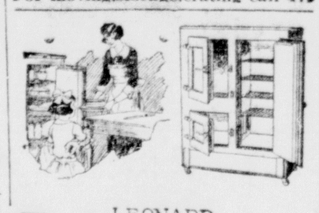

Three hundred and eleven car loads of the precious "hen-fruit" traveled via Frisco rails to all parts of the nation during January and February of 1926 as compared with 107 cars in 1925, constituting an increase of 245 per cent over last year.

Live and dressed poultry shipments also increased 60 per cent when 169 cars were shipped from the Ozarks as compared with 107 cars in 1925.

"There are no apparent reasons for the increase," W. L. English, supervisor of agriculture and refrigeration for the Frisco said, "except those of a general nature. The mild weather of the winter has been highly favorable for increased laying, and the quality of the henhouses and hens themselves in our Ozark region has increased tremendously. Poultrymen are taking much better care of their flocks, the feed given them, and the shelter provided has much to do, we believe, with this increase in shipments. We have noticed a steady increase in our shipments of eggs and poultry every year, but none so rapid as this has ever come before."

Big New Subdivision of 400 Acres To Be Opened As Oil Field Goes Dry

Property Formerly Held by Eastern Man Acquired by Local Interests for Consideration of $2500 an Acre

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 1.—The Bean-Getty Development Co. announced today the purchase of 400 acres east of the Petrol Oil Company's Hollywood field. This field, it was stated recently by company officials, has been pumped dry and will be abandoned as oil land, leaving the territory open for high-class residential development.

The Bean-Getty interests purchased the 400 acres from James Bigger, who had acquired the property for a nominal sum from Joseph Jones, a tourist who visited Hollywood for the winter months. Mr. Jones, for personal reasons, decided to sell his holdings and return east.

A few hours after Mr. Bigger acquired the acreage he was approached by representatives of the Bean-Getty Development company and a deal was quickly consummated. The price paid for the land was announced as approximate by $2500 an acre.

EVE'S TWO LOVERS

By EDGAR POE NORRIS

Thirty-three

"Well, I don't know, Dad," was Clay's reply.

Eve frowned. She saw that her husband was about to continue, and broke in: "I don't think it is wise for young married couples to live with either parents. They ought to solve their problems alone. But it's awfully kind of you to suggest it, Mr. Wales."

Clay's mother, relieved, nodded. "Henry and me didn't live with anybody when we got married. We had a one-room shack down by the railroad, and made a few pieces of furniture do, and I'll tell you we were mighty happy. These young people of today have to have too much to be happy, and still they aren't happy. And they can't afford it."

"I don't intend for us to start out heavily in debt," Eve observed. "We'll get just the necessary things and pay as we go."

"You're exactly right," said Mrs. Wales, feeling a new interest in her daughter-in-law."

"When Henry and me was married, we didn't have anything but a bed, a table and a cook stove. Married folks didn't start out with a whole houseful of pianos and things in those days, unless they were lucky enough to have somebody to give it to them. And that didn't happen often, because there were always eight or ten children in the family, and the older ones had to get out as soon as they could, with so many mouths to feed." Mrs. Wales gazed reflectively out of the window. "I really believe people were happier in those days, at that," she went on. "There wasn't so many things for them not to be able to afford, so they were content."

"You're always thinkin' of the past, mother," said Clay's father, not unkindly.

"Pa, when folks get as old as me and you, the past is the best thing to think about. There ain't no future to cheer you up. . . I never felt so old as today, as I was fixing things for my son's bride. . . Only yesterday he was runnin' to me whenever he got his finger cut. And now here he is, pa ,with a wife."

Clay felt very badly whenever his mother fell into her present tone. Eve noticed his discomfort and cast her eyes down.

"Aw, you got many years to live, mother," said Mr. Wales, comfortingly. "We can go down tomotrow and get you a new dress."

Mrs. Wales, a faraway mistiness about her eyes, shook her head and sighed.

Eve was thinking of this scene around the table when she went out with Clay in the evening to go to a movie. They had asked the old folks to accompany them, but pas was too tired, Mrs. Wales told them. Pa's protests that this wasn't so, were ineffectual.

"Your mother is going to miss you, Clay," Eve said.

"Oh yes, she'll miss a nuisance." There was just a little bitterness about the way he said "nuisance" that made her frown, and she changed the subject.

Clay, sluggish after his heavy meal, was bored with the movie, and wanted to leave before it was over. "All she can do is pose," he said contemptuously of Gladys Glanders, who, her press agent declares, gets $2,000,000 a year. But Eve, chafing because of his indifference, made him stay until the end. He did not offer to take her into Cary's for refreshments, as usual. She noted this, not because she wanted any of the sticky, indigestible, "refreshments" served there, but because she took it as an indication of changing attitude. Clay Wales, lover, was becoming Clay Wales, husband.

"Let's get up bright and early in the morning, and go look around again for a place," she suggested, as they walked home in the soft, balmy air.

"I'm willing; but where are we going to look? I'm not so sure we can find a mansion for fifty dollars a month, as you seem to think. We're either going to pay a stiff price, or live in one of these hovels down in Lincoln street."

She got the idea he was endeavoring to be sarcastic. "I don't think you're showing the right spirit," she answered, simply.

"Well, where are we going to look?"

"The Sunday papers always have lots of houses listed. We'll visit every one, apartments, cottages, bungalows and all."

"All right," he said resignedly.

They walked along in silence for several blocks. Then Clay abruptly exclaimed: "I've got it! I know what we can do! . . Let's build a place. We can get the money from a building and loan association on a note!"

"But you have to have a first payment. Besides, we haven't anyone to go on our notes. I don't think we should ask your father or mine."

"John Ingate."

Eve regarded him in amazement doubtful that he was sincere.

Clay read her glance. "Well, why not?" he protested.

"I don't see how you can think of such a thing!"

Her husband was unable to see any reason for such forceful displeasure.

"You would expect me to ask him to do it, I suppose," she said.

"That wouldn't be necessary. I could speak to him about it."

"Clay!"

John Ingate was shadowing their happiness again.

(To be continued.)

What does John Ingate say when Eve goes to him for help? See the next installment.

VIDOR SAYS MUSIC BIG ASSET IN MOVIE MAKING

New York.—Before King Vidor, the director who made "The Big Parade" and "La Boheme" begins "shooting" his next picture he will have a special musical score arranged for use throughout the photographing.

The plan conforms with his theory that tempo is one of the most important factors in the making of photoplays. For each scene in his last several pictures, Vidor worked out metronomical scales which the orchestras and actors were required to adhere to strictly.

"With the motion picture we must try to express that which can not be expressed by anything else," Vidor explained. "It is for us to take the spirit and atmosphere of a play or book and express them on the screen through the medium of motion.

"There must be a symphony of movement throughout a picture if it is to be artistic. The emotional rise and fall must be carefully portrayed and nothing has a more important bearing on this than tempo. Let the beat be a trifle off and the emotion you are trying to express will be missed.

"I am writing the scenario of 'Bardeys, The Magnificent,' Sabatini's play, and the calling in of a composer to prepare the score for use during the 'shooting' is only carrying a step further the relationship between tempo and music and the motion picture.

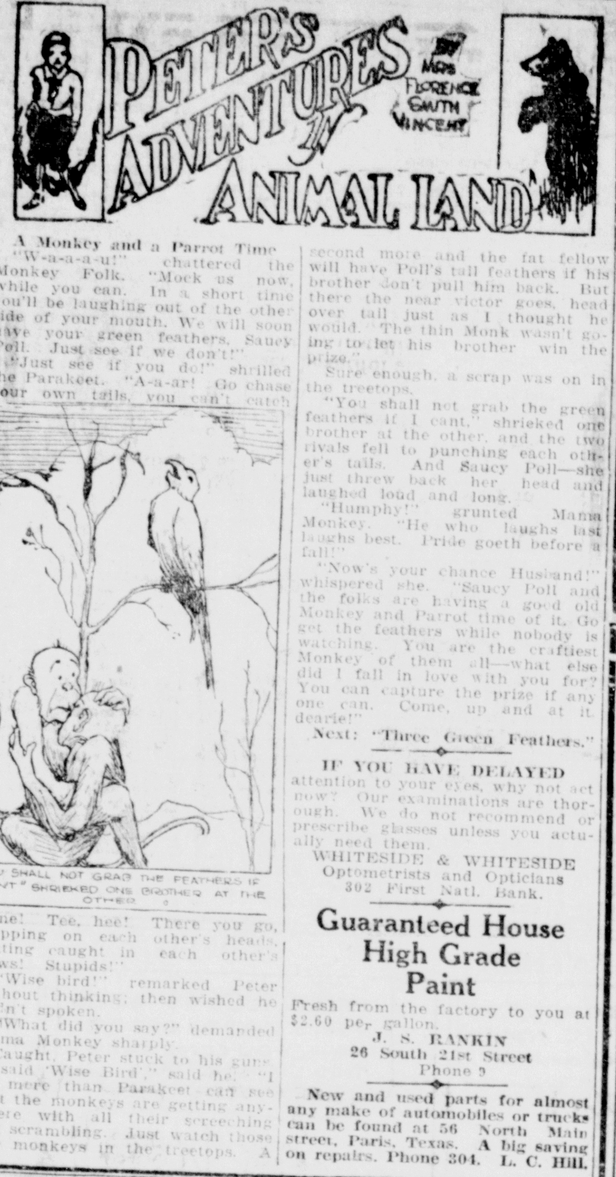

"Music, as every one knows, long has been used in the making of pictures, but this specific treatment should result in a picture of definite and strong movement."

Vidor is one of the youngest directors of moviedom, but he has been studying his work longer than many of the veterans.

"It dawned upon me that to become a success I should know the industry thoroughly," he said: "I worked several years as an extra, carpenter and in other small jobs before I became a director. I have never done anything else but work in and on pictures. To me, it has not been a business or a profession out of which to make money. I have tried to work as an artist and in each production I have attempted to create something new."

Vidor does not like color photography or talking movies, because he believes they increase the artificiality of pictures.

A Monkey and a Parrot Time

"W-a-a-a-u!" chattered the Monkey Folk. "Mock us now, while you can. In a short time you'll be laughing out of the other side of your mouth. We will soon have your green feathers, Saucy Poll. Just see if we don't!"

"Just see if you do!" shrilled the Parakeet. "A-a-ar! Go chase your own tails, you can't catch mine! Tee, hee! There you go, stepping on each other's heads, getting caught in each other's paws! Stupids!"

"Wise bird!" remarked Peter without thinking; then wished he hadn't spoken.

"What did you say?" demanded Mama Monkey sharply.

Caught, Peter stuck to his guns. "I said 'Wise Bird'," said he. "I no mere than Parakeet can see that the monkeys are getting anywhere with all their screeching and scrambling. Just watch those two monkeys in the treetops. A second more and the fat fellow will have Poll's tail feathers if his brother don't pull him back. But there the near victor goes, head over tail just as I thought he would. The thin Monk wasn't going to let his brother win the prize."

Sure enough, a scrap was on in the treetops.

"You shall not grab the green feathers if I cant," shrieked one brother at the other, and the two rivals fell to punching each other's tails. And Saucy Poll—she just threw back her head and laughed loud and long.

"Humphy!" grunted Mama Monkey. "He who laughs last laughs best. Pride goeth before a fall!"

"Now's your chance Husband!" whispered she. "Saucy Poll and the folks are having a good old Monkey and Parrot time of it. Go get the feathers while nobody is watching. You are the craftiest Monkey of them all—what else did I fall in love with you for? You can capture the prize if any one can. Come, up and at it, dearie!"

Next: "Three Green Feathers."
